Dr. Holling

Dr. David Holling is Director of Buchanan Counseling Center, a licensed mental health counselor and marriage and family therapist. He holds a Master of Divinity degree in Parish Ministry, a Master of Science in Marriage and Family Therapy, and a Ph.D. in Counseling and Human Development. He is a clinical member of the American Association of Marriage and Family Therapy. Dr. Holling is an ordained United Methodist Elder, North Georgia Annual Conference, and has served churches in Wisconsin, Iowa and Georgia.

From Dr. Holling's presentations, Addictions in the Congregation?, attendees will understand:

- The meaning, scope, and key elements of addictive behavior
- Spiritual dimensions of addiction, how faith, religion and faith communities help in recovery and prevention
- Practical ways to assist the addict, his/her family, and the community

Dr. LaFuze

Dr. Joan LaFuze is Professor of Biology, Indiana University East and a Research Associate at the Indiana University School of Medicine with expertise in Human Physiology as it relates to Neuroscience. She holds a B.A. from Indiana University Bloomington; an M.S. in Physiology, Ball State University; and a Ph.D. in Physiology, Indiana University. At IU, she teaches courses on the biology of mental illness and the biology of addictions, and a graduate course on topics related to brain physiology. She received the Indiana University all campus Frederic Bachman Lieber Distinguished Teaching Award and the FACET (Faculty Colloquium on Excellence in Teaching) Award. She is a member of the American Physiological Society, the American Chemical Society and NAMI.

From Dr. LaFuze's seminar, "Understanding the Biology of Addictions: Smoothing the Road to Recovery", attendees will be able to:

- identify the areas of the brain associated with addiction.
- explain the influence of genetic factors in addiction
- discuss the vulnerability of adolescents to addictions

Invited: Clergy, youth ministers, pastoral counselors, Stephen Ministers, small group leaders, education directors and teachers, parish nurses; congregational leaders in care-giving roles.

Souls in the Hands of a Tender God:

Stories of the Search for Home and Healing on the Streets

Chaplain Craig Rennebohm with David Paul, authors.

For those who dare to better understand and minister to homeless people on the streets living with mental illness, Souls in the Hands of a Tender God will challenge complacency and stereotypical thinking. Rennebohm and Paul's poignant stories demonstrate the value of each person and illustrate what true companionship looks like. Chaplain Rennebohm's own battles with serious depression have gifted him with deep insight into human frailty and God's gracious presence in suffering. With or without the companion discussion guide, Conversations, this book is excellent for personal reading or adult education classes, especially those of urban churches.
